

Dr. Rosenstock Of Doctors On Call To Host Segment On Wabc Radio

One of Brooklyn's finest and well-respected doctors on 'Talk with the Doc'

Brooklyn, NY... Your mother suffers from diabetes, her sugar levels are dangerously high and you're worried but can't get her to the doctor. Your father suffers from high blood pressure and is feeling unwell. You want him to see a doctor, but taking him means missing half a day of work. These are some of the situations caregivers and children face every day and that Brooklyn physician Dr. Paul Rosenstock, CEO of Doctors on Call responds to daily. He will share his experiences and advice on his new segment with world-renown Joan Hamburg, 'Talk with the Doc', Thursdays and Fridays on WABC Radio.

Dr. Rosenstock has been a practicing internist for over 30 years and held successful senior management positions at the Sephardic Home for Nursing and Rehabilitation and Brooklyn Health Partners. On his radio segment, Dr. Rosenstock will explain how to deal with a plethora of issues pertaining to the frail elderly. He will cover such concerns as diabetes, memory loss, high blood pressure, weight loss, and arthritis in the elderly, and how to make sure that they receive the best medical care if they can't get to the doctor's office.

In explaining his plans to join the program, Dr. Rosenstock said: "I have seen far too many cases where patients failed to receive proper medical care only because of the difficulty of getting to a doctor's office. In many cases, it is simply an arduous task for a caregiver, particularly when it is a child who cannot afford to lose any work time." He continued: "Doctors on Call brings back the age old tradition own home. Under his leadership, the service boasts over 70 providers who service patients living in the five boroughs, Long Island,

Medical Care for the Homebound of house calls but most importantly provides necessary care for patients with chronic conditions."

Dr. Rosenstock's Doctors on Call is a Brooklyn-based medical service whose team of doctors and medical professionals visit elderly patients in the comfort of their and Lower Westchester. Additional information can be found on www.doctorsoncallnyc.com or by calling 718.238.2100.

'Talk with the Doc' is a great way to find out how to help your elderly parents. It is definitely a segment not to be missed!
